

Location: RTE Studios Dublin

Project: Design, Manufacture Supply and Installation of Architectural piece of sculpture, Millennium

Designer: Michael Warren

In 2001 Kent Stainless worked with designer/sculptor Michael Warren to build this sculpture at RTE headquarters in Dublin 4, to commemorate the turn of the century. The simple, clean, minimal design is notoriously difficult to achieve. All edges were ground and polished smooth with the lack of tolerances in the design particularly challenging. Working with Kent Stainless in house design and project management teams, Michael was able to achieve the desired, high quality results.
